

THE CONSTITUTION
THE STANDARD SOUTHERN NEWSPAPER

Published Daily, Sunday, Tri-Weekly

CLARK HOWELL
Editor and General Manager
W. L. HALSTEAD
Business Manager
Advertisers: Clark Howell, Roy Robbins
Albert Howell Jr., H. R. Black, H. W. Grady.

Entered at the post office at Atlanta as second-class mail matter.

POSTAGE RATES:
United States: 1 cent to 10 cents;
10 to 12 cents; 12 to 24 cents;
24 to 30 cents; 30 to 50 cents; 50 to 60 cents.

In Atlanta $1 cent per month or 15 cents per month for 12 to 14 cents per month.

J. R. HOLLOWAY, Constitution Building,
sole Advertising Manager for all territory.

The address of the Washington Bureau is No. 1777 B Street, N. W., Mr. John Corrigan, J. S. T. staff correspondent, in charge.

THE CONSTITUTION is in use in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and other cities. It can be had in "The Standard Newsstands" (at the corner of Broadway and 23rd Street, and at the corner of Broadway and 25th Street).

The Constitution is not responsible for statements made to out-of-town local carriers, dealers or agents.

SENATOR W. S. WEST.

The appointment by Governor Slaton of W. S. West, of Atlanta, county, to fill the unexpired term of the United States Senator, A. G. Bacon is a recognition of signal achievement in the public service and of peculiar personal fitness. Colonel West is essentially of the self-made type of man, robust in initiative, liberal in mind, vigorous in action. He stands in the front rank of the men who have brought nobility for the phenomenal development of southwest Georgia during the past two decades. One of the latest tributes to his civic activity was the instrumental part he played in the establishment of the South Georgia Normal college at Valdosta, giving educational facilities to hundreds of young women from the south Georgia section.

His political record is one of consistent accomplishment, popularity and progress. He served long and with distinction in the state house of representatives. It speaks volumes for the esteem in which he is held in that when he was elected to the state senate he was chosen president of that body. He has even been a friend to conservative legislation, faithful to public trust.

Indefatigably, if the principle of geographical representation is to hold at all in American politics, it was due that south Georgia should have received the senatorship. Not for many years has a United States senator been elected or appointed from that part of the state. Common justice and the ordinary amenities of the occasion demanded the selection of a man from the wiregrass, that portion of the state which has made more proportionate progress in the past twenty years than any other part of Georgia.

The governor would do well to make it take that he had appointed one of the several distinguished sons of Georgia whose names were presented for his consideration. Of the 1st every man occupied a unique place in the current history of the state, and any one of them would have represented the state with distinction and ability.

No doubt a consideration largely controlling the appointment of the successful candidate was his close personal relations with the governor, and to the greatest extent of obligation felt by the governor for a man act of friendship on the part of Mr. West when he withdrew from the contest for the governorship two years ago in behalf of Mr. Slaton. In itself this would not have been enough to have justified an appointment to the senatorship, but when taken in consideration with Mr. West's eminent fitness for the place, and the fact that he hails from the heart of the wiregrass, unquestionably contributed to the governor's decision—and the people will think more of the governor for not being impervious to the sense of personal obligation.

Senator West goes to Washington well qualified to participate in important legislation now pending. He will, of course, cordially support the policies of the administration, and he will serve the state and the country in a manner worthy of the best ideals of both.

A SHAME AND DISGRACE.

The conditions at Grady hospital, as told the board of trustees by Superintendent Sumner, ought to blister into action the civic conscience of this city. The Grady has only thirty-four nurses, including night and day shifts. The superintendent says the hospital should have at least 100 nurses. The hospital is crowded and retain easily but for the lack of accommodation. The conditions in many of the wards are disgraceful.

There is evident suggestion and threat of brevity in efficiency from lack of the proper sort of facilities.

The tale of neglect at Grady is nothing new. The Constitution has been hammering the subject for several years. Superintendent Sumner has dinned the story to the ears of the public and the trustees. The latter are faithful and efficient but helpless against the apparently inexcuseable official parsimony and short sight of a rich and up-to-date city.

Conditions at Grady should be remedied and at once. It is the one municipal howitzer. It is doing a splendid work. It stands between God and devil for the cause of the worst people in Atlanta. The superintendent, the staff and the trustees have about reached the limit of their resourcefulness.

THE CASE OF BECKER.

The decision of the court of appeals of New York in the case of Lieutenant Charles Becker, accused of instigating the murder of the police reporter, ought to drive home a significant precedent in the criminal jurisprudence of this country.

By a practically unanimous verdict, the court annuls the conviction of Becker and gives him another hearing upon the count that did not have a fair trial.

It analyzes the low moral standing of the press, which is the chief evidence of the crime, and again the presiding Judge erred in suppressing admissible evidence for the defendant.

The decision plants itself, broadly, upon the immovable Roman and Anglo-Saxon legal principles.

It is the atmosphere of a trial or its trifling or trifling circumstances are such as to produce bias or inflame prejudice, the accused shall have the benefit of the doubt. It is, or should be, automatic and compelling that at every turn, under every condition, an environment of perfect fairness surround and circumscribe the trial.

Justice is built upon the theory that a man is innocent until his guilt shall have been established.

Justice does not contemplate passion.

Justice does not comprehend obscure evidence, or evidence from dubious sources, especially where that evidence shall be submitted to the court as evidence only.

The court did not attempt to settle the guilt or the innocence of Becker.

He mandate says only that he has not had a fair trial.

It decreed that he must have a fair trial. Our judicial and legal machinery is, at best, an inaccuracy, an arbitrary and a very fallible factor.

But we should at least make it positive that so far as human judgment goes innocence shall not suffer for guilt, nor doubt linger that verdicts are dictated by prejudice.

Once we strike this principle from our procedure we bid farewell to equity and the chief pillar of civilization.

THE BANKS RESPOND.

The organization of the new currency system announces that banks representing 99.75 per cent of the national banking capital of the country have applied for admission under the Glass-Owens law.

The response from trust companies and private bankers has been equally prompt. A large number of banks declining assign their reasons to causes entirely outside the virtues and advantages of the new law.

The virtual unanimity of the banking institutions of the country is significant in two directions:

—What is the best answer to the pessimism of those who declared that the banks of the nation would invalidate the new law by opposing it?

It is final indication that capital in America sees ahead one of the most prosperous periods in the country's history, and that it is minded to be duly prepared to reap the benefit.

Of course, the receptivity of the banks is largely due to the missionary work done by McAdoo and Houston on their national tour of investigation. These men carried conviction wherever they went and dissipated the lingering remnants of doubt or disbelief.

But it is important to remember that banks of national prominence had asked permission to qualify long before the committee launched its tour. The deciding argument with the financiers is, therefore, that of profit and expediency.

All of which means that, in all probability, the day when the new currency system comes over shall be well informed and smoothly working one of the best and most approved currency systems in the world, bank-proof and sufficiently elastic for sound business.

And that, in turn, the bases of prosperity will be laid, signifying a season of affluence which should establish new high records in America's history.

Another Life-Lesson.

—For so many years the Adams family had to live in a snow storm, said Brier Williams, as he "dusted" the flakes from the roof of his home, and his lessons for you shivering sinners, but I'll not tell you 'em 'ow arid my wisdom marchin' drat ter loose my joints; but I'll take time ter tell you much ter you: Watch out befor' ye' even; I never has seen de devil in a snowstorm."

We have to call attention to the fact that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

Perhaps Mr. Butler thinks that if he gets his job back he can demonstrate in Murphy that he can be other kinds of a governor than "a 'ell of a one."

It is said that Standard Oil has a sixty-year agreement with China. Will it take it that long to own the country?

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

Mr. Bryan merely smiles at their efforts to make a small hot bird of the placid Dove of Peace.

And somehow it always seems to me that Georgia has the very best white of bone before George Bailey claims it for Texas. But George will add a red-headed halo to all that tells his tale.

General Diaz may write for magazines.

Not so dangerous a business as standing over them at home.

Huerta is presiding at banquets. Talk is all he can afford, and there's where he has an excuse for it.

</

Mrs. W. S. West, Her Young Son and Their Beautiful Home

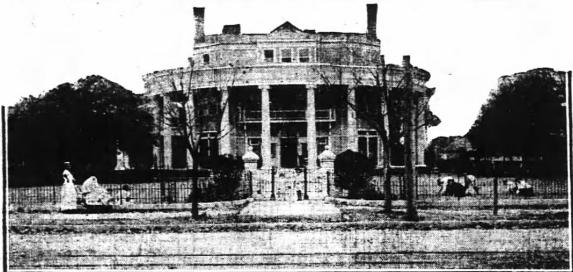

MRS. W. S. WEST,
Valdosta.

W. S. W.

The home of Senator and Mrs. William S. West, in Valdosta, is one of the handsomest in the state, and is noted for its hospitality. Mrs. West is a charming woman, who graces and adorns the social life of her section. William S. West, Jr., is the pride of the parents' hearts.

W. S. WEST, JR.
Valdosta.

W. S. W.

W. S. WEST NAMED
TO SUCCEED BACON

Continued From Page One.

It will tender me the unexpired term of Senator Bacon. I consider it not only a great compliment to myself, but more especially to the section of the country which I come from. It has been many, many years since south Georgia has had a representative in the senate from the state of Georgia, and I consider Senator West's appointment as the real southern section of the state which, as we remember, when he was first nominated, could proudly of any part of the state during the past twenty years.

"I am aware of the fact that many distinguished men in my part of the state are not in favor of Senator West, and I am frank to say that if the governor had seen fit to appoint someone else, I would very cordially have approved the appointment. The governor could have done no better, and the large number of representative Georgians present to his consideration.

"Now that the matter has been settled, I will say that my heart is with Senator West. I am very cordially in sympathy with the policy of President Wilson and his administration. I am committed to nothing on earth but the upholding of the principles of the Constitution, and I am every democrat to stand back of the president in the fight he is making for the principles of the Constitution in every life of our party. I shall co-operate with him to the very best of my ability.

"As regards the various appointments that have been made, I am satisfied that I think it also prove that I should say in this connection that I have no objection to Senator West's appointment in my part of the state. I have no objection to Senator West's appointment under any circumstances.

Sketch of New Senator.

The following sketch of Senator

West was written by the late C. R. Pendleton, editor of The Macon Telegraph, and is copied from the Atlanta Constitution.

Stanley West, the oldest surviving son of James and Mary A. Lovins, a country bar, with residence in the city of Valdosta, Georgia.

West was born in Marion county, Georgia, where he graduated from the Marion University.

Subsequently receiving the degrees of Master of Arts from the University of Georgia, he completed his education with the University of Georgia, where he graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Law in 1889.

He then engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

He was engaged in teaching, continuing his studies with the University of Georgia, and was a member of the Georgia Bar in 1890.

Councilman Humphrey

Resigns Membership
On Street CommitteeSeven Cases of Corn,
Two Barrels of Rye,
Seized by Sergeant

Nothing punctures the sentiment of a kiss like aiming at a mouth and missing.

HEADACHES SUCCUMB
To A-E Tablets

Our Greatest Asset

Your good-will is the greatest business asset we can have. To get your good will and keep it we must live up to what we say, so that when we tell you that

E. G. Willingham's Sons

Lumber is the kind that qualifies—we have given careful consideration to your good will.

542 Whitehall Street

Don't You See the Value of MOTOR TRUCK Service NOW?

MR. BUSINESS MAN:

The above is a photographic reproduction of but one in many hundreds of similar accidents to horse-driven vehicles that occurred on Atlanta's streets yesterday.

Such accidents caused—

Delayed deliveries,

Mules and horses with broken legs,

Inhuman treatment of dumb animals,

Costly experiences to many business men—

You will no doubt say yesterday was an exceptionally bad day for Atlanta—

That may be true—

YET—

It is again true that in all of yesterday's bad and disagreeable weather the Van Winkle motor truck did not falter—

It proved its efficiency over horse (or mule) driven vehicles—

No delayed deliveries,

No broken legs,

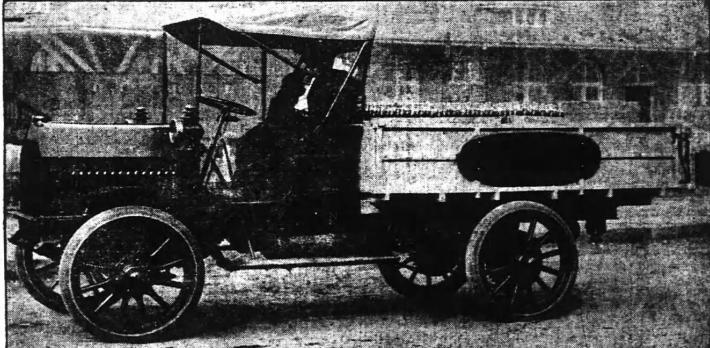

AND—

If it proved its efficiency on the worst day of the year—

Why not the other 364?

STAMP YOUR BUSINESS AS PROGRESSIVE—

Every merchant, every manufacturer should investigate the Van Winkle Motor Truck at once—

P. S.—We are prepared to make immediate deliveries. Call Ivy 120 and we will give you prompt attention. Write for catalogue and sales plans.

VAN WINKLE MOTOR TRUCK CO.
ANDREW J. PAXTON, JR., Sales Manager

Phone Ivy 120

ATLANTA, GA.

General Supply Co.,
51 East Alabama St.,
ATLANTAGeneral Supply Co.,
51

